

Alexis Stoner, PhD, MPH serves VCOM-CC as the Assistant Dean for Campus Research and Professor and Discipline Chair for Preventive Medicine and Public Health. She has a bachelor's degree in biology from Kenyon College, a master's degree in public health from The Ohio State University, and a Ph.D. in curriculum and instruction – instructional design and technology from Virginia Tech. Currently, her research focuses on topics within medical education, mental and behavioral health, and community-based medicine. She is passionate about working in the Upstate Region of South Carolina in effort to serve the rural and underserved and improve community health. She lives in Belmont, North Carolina with her husband, Brett, and two children Sam (10), and Sydney (7).