

Dr. Laura Gillis retired from Union Pacific in May 2025, after serving as Chief Medical Officer and currently serves as President of the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine (ACOEM).

Throughout her career, Dr. Gillis has held diverse leadership positions in occupational medicine. She served as a US Naval Flight Surgeon, operated a private medical practice, held the position of US Federal Maritime Surgeon, and worked as Medical Director at BNSF Railway before joining Union Pacific.

Within ACOEM, Dr. Gillis has maintained extensive organizational involvement, including service as Chair of the Council on Membership Engagement, Chair of the Transportation Section, and member of the ACOEM Board of Directors, Finance Committee, and Bylaws Committee.

Dr. Gillis is wife to Peter and mother to her two daughters, Remington and Hunter.