

BIOGRAPHY

UNITED STATES AIR FORCE

LIEUTENANT COLONEL DARNELL R. SCHUETTTLER

Lieutenant Colonel Darnell Schuettler is the Wing Command Psychologist for 432d Wing, Air Combat Command, Creech Air Force Base, Nevada. She is responsible for integrating psychology, physical therapy, flight medicine, and strength and conditioning capabilities, ensuring the 432d Wing's readiness and sustainment in 24/7/365 deployed-in-garrison operations.

Lt Col Schuettler completed the USAF Clinical Psychology Residency at Lackland AFB, TX. She first served at JB Charleston, SC as the Director of Psychological Health. During this assignment, she deployed to Afghanistan with the 3rd Infantry Division as the Combat Stress Clinic Officer in Charge. Next, she led the Mental Health Element at Aviano AB, Italy. She was then selected as the White House Military Office Psychologist in Washington, DC. Following the White House, she commanded the RAF Alconbury, UK Mental Health Flight. Finally, she completed a DARPA fellowship en route to her current assignment at Creech AFB.

